HOUSE COMMITTEE DRAFTS COUNTER OFFER FOR LEASING OF MUSCLE SHOALS PLANTS

DEMONSTRATION OF METHOD OF KILLING COTTON WEEVIL TO BE HELD NEAR HERE

Series Will Be Staged Under Auspices of Southern Cotton Oil Co.

LOCAL PEOPLE WILL ASSIST IN THE WORK

Important Announcement Made By D. G. Perkins, the Local Manager

A series of demonstrations of a method of preventing the spread of the boll weevil and stamping out the cotton pest will be given in Alabama counties soon by the Southern Cotton Oil company, it was announced today by D. G. Perkins, local manager.

Demonstrations are to be given near Albany-Decatur, Cullman, Andalusia and Sheffield in Alabama and at a number of other points in North and South Carolina and Georgia, Mr. Perkins stated.

In the local demonstration, Fred Patterson, J. M. Clark, Hughes and Tidwell and E. R. Wolfe have been selected to make the tests, under the direction of Dr. A. E. Gratham, director of the service bureau of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company and Mr. Perkins.

The method to be used will be spray with calcium arsenate. It is declared to be a very practical method of defeating the pests which have made such inroads on the South's cotton crop in recent years.

Mr. Perkins said:

"How to grow cotton under weevil conditions has been well worked out. The Bureau of Entomology of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has been studying and investigating the life history and habits of the boll weevil ever since the insect crossed the Rio Grande River from Mexico in 1892. In the meantime, careful research and experiments have been made with the view of determining what methods of control, both direct and indirect, can be used most economically and effectively. While no device or method has been found to entirely exterminate the weevil, the Department authorities have demonstrated beyond a doubt, that the application of Calacium Arsenate, properly applied, will keep the insect in check long enough to allow the cotton plant to develop a full set of bolls."

Flood Danger Believed Past

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, May 1.—Additional flood danger along the Mississippi is averted, according to I. M. Cline, of the New Orleans weather bureau. He says favorable wind and the breaking in three places of the levees of the lower reaches of the river have caused the waters to drop.

The river at New Orleans now is 1.8 feet below its highest point. Another gradual rise, however, is expected. Its seriousness will depend on wind. Reports show 20,000 people need relief near Vicksburg.

Rock Falls And Coal Is Revealed

It is understood that the large rock which fell during the heavy rain Monday night a week ago south of Somerville several miles, revealed at the base of it a large coal mine of considerable thickness. It has been known for a long time that coal existed in that section, and mines on this bench of the mountain have been worked lately. Nature may have revealed something worth while when she dismantled this huge boulder from its resting place held for centuries.

These are modern times for certain! Mrs. E. C. Tuttue, of Red Oak, Iowa, wanted a "few little things" from Cicago. Fortwith she cranked up her "air jitney" and made a hurried flight to the "Windy City," made her purchase and returned home—just like that!

BUSINESS BETTER; IMPROVEMENT IS LIKELY THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, May 1. — An immediate business boom in the United States is unlikely because of Europe's tardy economic reconstruction, but fundamental conditions are much better and there is every reason to believe that they will continue to improve steadily, though slowly.

This was the opinion expressed today officials of the Department of Commerce, basing their optimistic predictions on reports of increased production, more stable prices and larger export trades.

Improvements in the United States are noted by the Department of Commerce as follows:

Textile—Imports of unmanufactured wool in March showed a bid increase over recent months, the total of 43,071 pounds being the largest since the emergency tariff went into effect in April, 1921. Receipts of domestic wool were also exceptionally heavy and exports of cotton cloth increased nearly 50 per cent over February.

Iron and Steel—Total exports in March were the largest since March of last year and there also was a big increase in imports.

JUNIOR ORDER TO HOLD STATE MEET

Delegates were arriving here this afternoon for the opening of the convention of Alabama councils of the Junior Order of American Mechanics. The convention will hold a preliminary session tonight and will get down to business early Tuesday. Sessions will be held in the Odd Fellow's hall on Second avenue.

The first session tonight will be in the nature of a "get acquainted" meeting. The delegates will be extended a cordial welcome by Mayor E. C. Payne and members of the local council have provided an interesting program of entertainment for the visitors. A number of prominent local people have been invited to attend the meeting tonight. Addresses are scheduled by several leading members of the order.

EXPECT MAY DAY TO PASS WITHOUT 'RED' OUTBREAKS IN UNITED STATES

All Hints of Bomb Plots are Discounted by Attorney General

GOMPERS OPPOSES SOVIET RECOGNITION

Warns That Bolsheviki Propaganda Fund in America Totals Millions

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 1. — The United States government saw no "red" in May Day celebrations today. All hints of bomb plots were discounted by Attorney General Daugherty and other officials of the Department of Justice were of the opinion that the day would pass uneventfully and without disorders.

The approach of the May Day brought unusual reports that extremists would attempt demonstrations of violence, but the Attorney General, assisted by William J. Burns, chief of bureau of investigation, made a preliminary survey and reached the conclusion that no outbreaks were in prospect.

Reports of the Department of Justice indicated that although the country is seriously disturbed with strike troubles, the labor disputes are taking a peaceful course.

From coal mining regions, federal agents reported that the operators and striking miners are far from an agreement, but that neither side is attempting tactics which would justify intervention by government authorities.

On the contrary, latest advices indicate that the two sides in the strike controversy are workingf around to the point where preliminary friendly conferences are believed possible.

Unlike other May Days for several years past, members of the cabinet and other high governmentad officials, were without veiled threats of personal violence. The usual labor solidarity statement from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, today took the sharp form of an attack on communism and the machinations among the workers of America.

In opposing any American recognition of Russia as a base betrayal of civilization, Gompers issued a warning that the Bolsheviki propaganda fund in the United States amounts to millions of dollars. Bribes are being offered.

NEW THEORY HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH

(International News Service)

HOOPESTON, Ill., May 1. — Gertrude Hanna, young choir singer, died during an illegal operation and her body was literally refrigerated in an ice house, before it was carried to the parsonage basement, where it was finally discovered, according to a theory build up by officials of Vermillion County today.

The new theory divulged after authorities had closely questioned the father, mother and two sisters of the dead girl, was that Gertrude was taken to the mill for the illegal operation that was reckoned as the one step to escape from gossip sure to come with the birth of a fatherless child.

The father, coming from the city hall chamber, revealed a strange new attitude. He had been urging officials to every effort.

"I'd just as soon have the whole thing dropped," he said. "There has been too much gossip and scandal already."

LOCAL ASSOCIATION GIVEN A CHARTER BY FEDERAL LAND BANK AND DOES BUSINESS

Counties of Morgan and Lawrence Are Included In The Jurisdiction

AMPLE FUNDS READY FOR FARMERS' LOANS

Letter From Secretary Gaspard Urges Quick Action To Get Money

A charter has been issued to the Decatur National Farm Association, of Albany, according to an announcement today by P. R. Hutson, secretary of the Association. The charter is for the counties of Morgan and Lawrence and the Association already is functioning, approximately $100,000 having been authorized in loans for this section, it was stated.

Mr. Hutson today made public a letter from C. C. Gaspard, secretary of the federal land bank at New Orleans, advising the local association that the federal bank now has a plentiful supply of application blanks for loans and is in position to put out funds in large amounts.

"We say to you 'go to it', only encourage, but urge your people to take advantage of the situation and secure the great benefit of the farm loan system," writes Mr. Gaspard.

The farm bank system is a part of the government's movement to aid the farmers in financing their industry and, according to Mr. Gaspard's letter, the bank will loan money for purchase of lands, to provide buildings and improvements, to buy equipment, fertilizer, livestock, ect. and to pay existing debts.

Farmers desiring to make loans under the farm bank law must be an actual farmer, his principal income must be from farming, and if he does not live on the farm, he must, at least, have constant control and supervision of the property.

HERO FRIENDS HAVE MET AGAIN

Marshal Joffre and General Pershing

It was over the luncheon tablt in Washington and not on the battle-scarred fields of France that Marshal Joffre, hero of the Marne, and General John J. Pershing, Commander of the American Expeditionary Forces, met this time. They recalled amusing incidents of how an American doughboy "sold' 'a Yank ammunition train to a French general. Hence the smiles.

Pastor Insists On Sustained Efforts On the Part of Christians in Sermon

In his sermon yesterday morning Rev. George M. Davenport, pastor of the First Methodist of Decatur, insisted on sustained efforts on the part of Christians. He said that it was easy to conceive of the salvation of the world in the present generation if all the Christian people would put themselves entirely at the disposal of their acknowledged King.

"We hold revival meetings and with the truth, whip people into line, they join the church, and too often 'forget it.'"

"The leadership of this world determines what the young generation is to be." "The less religion people have the more dancing and frolic they demand," declared the preacher.

He then went on to charge that the young people did not resent the straight preaching of the gospel, and were not driven out of the churches by such preaching. "Wherever you see young people drifting from the church, you will generally find that some old person, who has influence over them has got mad at the church, and said things in their presence that had disheartened and discouraged them." Referring to the scripture the preacher, said that it were better that a mill stone be hanged about the necks of such people and they cast into the sea, than that they should discourage religious life among the young people. In speaking of a certain disturbance of public worship, Rev. Davenport said that he knew that in every case except one the parents of the boys making the disturbance did not attend church. In speaking of what he believed Christ would do if He were a member of the First Methodist church, the speaker said he did not think He would absent Himself from any of the prayer meetings or Sunday services.

Text Words of Christ

The text used by Rev. Davenport was taken from the conversation of the Master with His disciples at the time. He told them that He had meat to eat that they knew not of. It was declared that Christ's meat was to do the will of God. The speaker laid the scene of his opening remarks at Jacob's well, at the time Christ came there to rest and await the coming of some of His disciples who were gone into the villages to buy food. "Christ was, doubtless, more used up with fatigue than were His disciples. As was His custom He had doubtless arisen early, and been busy a long while when He came to the well. While He was awaiting the coming of food that would relieve his bodily distress, He had an opportunity to perform a service that gave joy and rest to His soul". In this connection the preacher referred to the conversion of the woman who came to the well to draw water at the time Jesus sat by the well. It was affirmed that Christ always put service to others ahead of His own needs, and it was reminded that He declared that He came to minister, not to be ministered unto.

The banner set far ahead.

"Christ has set His banner on the heights. He has set high ideals. You can live a mean low sordid life, but you can never bring His ideals down. He could have escaped the Cross, if He had denied His mission, and given up His great plans; but if He had He would never have been the Savior of the world." The speaker went on to say that professed Christians could live ignoble lives, and still remain in outward good standing but that such could not aid in saving the world. It was explained that bad conduct could not be prevented, but that it was the duty of the church to refuse to countenance it." I understand some women smoke and get drunk, but we do not have to tolerate it. The whirl of dissipation in which some people live is forcing them to live at a low level—below the level of beasts." The speaker stated that his war experiences had been a sad revelation to him. He said that he knew of divine services being held, and immediately afterwards the same building was turned into a veritable hell of dissipation, where the worst passions of men were appealed to by the worst class of females—"all allowed by the United States government, concluded the speaker. In speaking of the degrading effects of the war said the preacher—"even the preachers got to cussing." The examples of such Bible worthies as Joseph, in Egypt and Daniel in Babylon were referred to as showing that it was not necessary for any body to fall in with evil ways if they did not wish to do so.

The preacher said that "this old world has got to catch step with its rightful Lord and Master", if right conditions were ever established, and individual lives made what they ought to be. "As for me", concluded the speaker, "I expect to uphold Christ's cause and Kingdom."

WOMEN WILL BE BANQUET GUESTS

Women of the First Methodist Sunday school will be entertained by the men of the school with a barbecue at 7:30 o'clock Friday night, the affair taking place in the Malone garage, on the large upper floors.

The barbecue follows a recent membership and attendance campaign, in which the men were defeated by the women of the school after an interesting campaign which attracted many new members to the school. Approximately 200 guests are expected at the barbecue.

Hardy M. Burt is chairman of the committee on entertainment and he is preparing a splendid menu for the guests.

Conflict Between Ford Offer And Government's Plans Is Revealed

ENGINEERS APPEAR BEFORE COMMITTEE

Hugh L. Cooper Testifies Before the House Investigators Also

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, May 1. — A conflict between Henry Ford's offer to lease the Muscle Shoals nitrate project and the government's plans for its development was revealed today before the senate agriculture committee.

Ford, it was stated by W. B. Mayo, his chief engineer, insists upon retention of the Gorgas Warrior steam plant as a part of the Muscle Shoals project.

The government, on the other hand, believes this plant should be eliminated entirely from the offer, Mayo appeared before the committee to formally explain Ford's offer to the senate. He was aided by J. W. Worthington, president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, and a Ford representative.

Dissatisfied with the offers made the government for plants at Muscle Shoals, the house military affairs committee is itself drafting a counter offer, it became known today. The committee's idea of what the bidders should agree to in taking over the Shoals property will be submitted to each of them in lieu of their own bids.

Unless one of the bidders accepts the committee's proposal as a substitute for his own, none under consideration of the committee for several weeks past, will be accepted, it was learned.

Hugh L. Cooper, of Stamford, Conn., consulting engineer who was in charge of the Muscle Shoals development when the project was initiated, testified before the committee today in executive session.

Leave For Camp Walton, Florida

P. C. Jordan and J. T. Vanarsdale left Sunday for Camp Walton, Fla., for an outing. These gentlemen are well known engineers of the L. & N. system and are expert anglers. They may reasonably be expected to return with sufficient fish stories to establish reputation as the boss fish catchers, even though they fail in landing heavily on finny tribe. Mr. Jordan has been quite ill for many weeks and his friends will be glad to know he is rapidly recuperating.

Revenue Board Meeting Monday

The board of revenue of the county is sitting today at the court house in special session to ratify some of the three mill bond elections held recently in some of the school districts over the county. The business of the day will be consumed in varifying the votes cast in the different school districts and certifying to the vote. The boxes are being brought in today containing the votes.

OCCUPY NEW HOME

Geo. J. Friedkin and family are moving to the city today from Hartselle. They will occupy the late home of Andrew G. Patterson on Jackson street, and will make a valuable addition to the social and business life of the Twin Cities. Mr. Friedkin is manager of the Sherby Clothing company located on Second Avenue.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF TOMORROW; EVERY ONE WHO CAN SHOULD GRASP IT.

The meeting planned for tomorrow afternoon at which H. S. Mobley, a high authority on farming, will make the principal address, subject: "The Cow, Man's best Friend" should prove of untold benefit to this section of Alabama. Mr. Mobley will be unable to reach any other point in Morgan county and his only other addresses in this part of the state are to be at Gadsden and Cullman.

Some of the potential values of cattle to the farmers and too all the people may be summed up as follows: Beginning with the land building value of a single cow, the United States government reports, show that $25 each year is furnished in fertilizer alone, and that a single application of such land enrichment, has been proven to remain with the land for seven years, while commercial fertilizer lasts but for a single season. In the next place, after a cow has ceased to be profitable as a milk and butter manufacturer, she can be sold as beef for a considerable sum of money. And during the many years of a cow's life, she gives birth to a large number of off spring as valuable as her self. The butter product of one cow has been estimated at $8.00 per month, thus a half dozen cows will produce a monthly income of nearly fifty dollars per month.

If some, who have given their whole time and strength to the raising of cotton alone as a money crop, would keep this consideration in mind and act in accordance with it, there would be a continual flow of money into the coffers of the farmers, since there seems to be no limit to the amount of butter fat the market will consume.

The cow must ever stand first in the economy of the farm. Modern machinery may crowd out the noble horse and the patient mule, but the position of the cow is secure. From her bounty, after the family has been fed on her butter and rich cream, the calves, pigs and chickens may be fed and fattened by the skimmed milk product. And the cow is self sufficient. She is necessary to her friends; they are not necessary to her. The cow can find her own living in large part throughout the year in this section of the country, on pasture lands and in the swamps and forests. This is not so universally true now, however as it was in the years gone by, and Mr. Mobley will doubtless have valuable information to give out by word of mouth and by means of printed matter, that will enable cattle raisers to produce their beef, and milk and butter at the lowest possible figure.

The understanding is that at the meeting tomorrow it will be made plain just how cattle can be raised at a profit, in every section of north Alabama. Mr. Mobley may be expected to elaborate on the importance of farmers having profitable employment for every day in the year. He may mention other employments besides the manufacture of milk and butter, but he is pretty sure to show to the satisfaction of all, that the cow is the best manufacturing "plant" on earth, and the one most easily made "going concern" and at the least outlay of capital. Until the chemists make a world of progress undreamed of today, in the artificial manufacture of butter products, the cow must remain supreme as the most valuable producer of human food on this planet. No such perfect food as cow milk has ever been produced are attempted. It is said by the authorities on food, that the Creator, has produced no other such a perfect human food maker as the cow. It will be noticed that the advertisers of condensed milk-say when ever it is possible that their product is cow's milk—nothing added", proving beyond a doubt that nothing can add to the value of the product of man's best friend—the cow.

OLD-TIME RELIGION NEEDED IN OUR EVERYDAY LIFE TODAY.

One of the speakers who was on the program at the meeting of the mill supply men of the United States in Birmingham last week made a profound impression when he told his hearers that the greatest need of the business and social world today is a reawakening to the necessity for applied religion in everyday life, and he therupon presented a reminiscent view of his own family life in days gone by when the old time religion was an integral part of the family circle.

That address was considered extraordinary, and it was. For men are wont today to give oral expression to their religion only on the Sabbath, and then too often only during the hours of divine service. But this should not be. Religion should not be put aside with the Sunday pantaloons. It should live with us in the office, in the home and on the street; and if this were so the world would be a better and a safer place in which to live.

The iconoclasts have been given too much credence in recent years. Their preachments against so-called negative religion has been taken too much to heart. They have all but destroyed our ever-present consciousness of the Ten Commandments as a rule of life, and it may be because we have ceased to stress the fact "thou shalt not kill," "thou shalt not steal," "thou shalt not commit adultery," "thou shalt not bear false witness," etc., that we have had visited upon us in recent months such an abandon of crime and lawlessness.

An accused officer of the law languished in his cell in the county jail here this week and listened to the direful toll of the bells; ominous, awful as they proclaimed the last sad rites that were being said over the mortal remains of two men who had fallen as a result of his deadly aim. And whether that man be guilty or innocent within the eyes of the law, that funeral dirge must have struck remorse to his soul, causing him to look backward over his days and ot wish to God that he had kept to the letter the divine injunction, "Thou shalt not kill," for it is an awful thing, even in justice, to take a human life. Three families have been brought to grief by this tragedy, and all might have been avoided had there been a greater regard for the "thou shalt nots" of the Ten Commandments.

Happily the day of the iconoclasts has about run its course. That old time religion bids fair to come back into its own. The address of the big business man in Birmingham last week was but an expression of a general tendency on the part of men of affairs to take God into counsel in their daily dealings. Mr. Roger W. Babson, one of the greatest living statisticians, has written a book on "Religion and Business," and the Golden Rule is being given greater consideration by employers and employes generally, all of which seems to promise that a new day is dawning. That day may be hastened if in our churches and Sunday schools our religious teachers will devote a little more thought to applied Christianity.—Anniston Star.

POLITICAL POWER DID NOT BRING CROKER HONOR.

America was in every sense of the word a land of opportunity to the late Richard Croker. A poor Irish boy, he became immensely rich and one of the most powerful political bosses this country ever knew. He was an absolute dictator whose word was law, and as a politician of his type probably never had an equal in America, unless it was his predecessor, Tweed.

But Croker's career, although it brought him prestige of a sort, wealth and power, could hardly be held out as a shining example to other ambitious boys, whether Irish or native born. The public never found out how Croker got his money, but there were many theories offered and none of them was creditable to the Tammany boss. The methods he employed by which Tammany controlled every elective office in New York, from the highest to the lowest, were notorious, and he never lived down the stigma which attached to his name. Yet, with an Irish sense of humor, or grim irony, he once proclaimed himself a reformer!

Age tempered the former autocrat of Tammany. In later years he was a philosopher and a sportsman and a celebrity on both sides of the water, but neither his riches nor his fame won him the social position he craved and sought. Also in his old age retribution overtook him in the form of family quarrels during which his sons by his first wife made an unsuccessful attempt to have him declared incompetent to manage his own affairs.

Perhaps Croker had no regrets. He was not the kind of man to worry over the charge that he had been a crooked and unscrupulous politician, but there must have been times when he realized that success bought by questionable means has its disadvantags. He had the energy and the ability to become a great man. As it was, he was only a political boss, although an amazingly adroit and successful one.—Age-Herald.

THE WATTS CASE.

The summary of W. O. Watts, special agent of the Department of Justice, "for disloyalty to the department," is one more count against the administration of this department by politicians.

Attorney-General Daugherty declares:

> I ordered Watts to be discharged; that's all I want to say about it. We can't discuss the discharge of peope around here. I had good and sufficient reasons for dispensing with his services. They were not satisfactory and were dispensed with. Such situations are likely to happen again. That's all I care to say.

As an afterthought, he added that whatever the Congress might think about it "doesn't worry me a minute," evidently recalling the threat of two members of the Congress to institute impeachment proceedings if the prosecution of alleged war contract grafters were not pressed.

Mr. Watts is a veteran of the Spanish War, the Philippine insurrection and the World War. One will not question his loyalty to his country.

In reply to Mr. Daugherty, he makes this statement:

> If you are at all informed on the departmental affairs of your high office you must be aware of the outstanding facts that I have devoted more than two years to loyal and faithful efforts to protect the interests of the Government when a combination of certain governmental officials and other common crooks have been assaulting and raiding the public treasury on a scale so gigantic as to be almost unbelievable.
>
> You have seen fit in the prosecution of the war graft cases to deprive the Government of the services of men who have served their country in both peace and war, and to surround yourself in this great work by men who sought and secured exemption from military service when these crimes were being committed. You are entitled to share with yourself your conceptions of loyalty and the people can judge whether or not the stigma you have attempted to place myself and my children is just.
>
> Mr. Watts supplied information dealing with the failure to prosecute war contracts to certain members of the Congress who recently charged both Secretary of War Weeks and Attorney-General Daugherty with obstructive tactics.
>
> It appears to be plain that in his zeal to protect the interests of the nation he stepped on toes that were tender.
> Some interesting disclosures are to be looked for.—Nashville Tennesseean.

Muscle Shoals project is not dead; only sleeping. Sometime it will awake; sometime the project will be resurrected and with this resurrection some one else will be put to sleep for a time. They will be allowed to rest from their labors? At the national capitol, where they have labored so industriously? for? the? people? whom? they? serve?. The people will not always submit to such a gross neglect on the part of their servants. They will correct it without any flambouyant demonstration; just the depositing of a little scrap of paper which is called the ballot. Mark you well the ballot.

MORE ABOUT THE HORNED TOAD

Editor The Daily:

The mention of the toad found in the relent clean up drive, brings to my mind a funny thing that happened to me, many years ago, in Waco, Texas. As I passed a lady on the street one day I caught sight of what I thought to be an awful reptile of some kind clinging to the folds of her dress, as it swept the the sidewalk behind her (trails were worn in those days). I was greatly alarmed and felt that I must tell her, so turning, I hastened after her overtaking her in a few seconds.

"Please excuse me," I said, "but there is an awlful looking thing of some kind on your dress."

She stopped and loked herself over, but found nothing to upset her in the least.

"What is it," she said sweetly.

O, I do not know, but really I saw something awful."

She raised her hand and in doing so she brought to view the toad, attached to a silken cord.

"O, this is mw pet, he goes with me everywhere" and she looked "tenderfoot" at me as plainly as if she had said the word.

I afterwards met her and we became great friends and I was also a friend to the harmless horned toads, and the children and I made some wonderful captures of them. They are very interesting.

MRS. EDMUNDSON SPEAKS IN JACKSON

Mrs. W. B. Edmundson, of Decatur, candidate for congress against Judge Ed B. Almon, spoke to a good crowd of interested listeners here last Thursday. There was quite a number of ladies in the audience.

There were possibly some of the audience who came through curiosity but before the speech was over their curiosity undoubtedly gave way to sober thoughts, for Mrs. Edmundson soon proved to the crowd that she possesses the knack of saying things in a manner to compel serious attention. Her talk was not a long, drawn-out, wearisome piece of oratory where one carries his hearers all over the world before tying to touch the questions to be discussed. Neither did she indulge in humorous digressions so often resorted to by political speakers in order to interest his crowd of doubtful loyalty. She began at the right place and ended the same way, with language thoroughly understandable and voice perfectly audible to all present.

She discussed the needs of the eighth district and told in plain language just how she would go about getting these needs satisfied.

Development of waterpower (especially at Muscle Shoals), good roads, schools and farming were the main points discussed and it was very evident that she is thoroughly familiar with each of these subjects as well as all others touched upon.

Mrs. Edmundson made many friends and some votes while here if one should judge by the different comments heard and it is freely asserted by many that her opponent is up against a hard proposition to win out in the approaching primary.—The Bridgeport News.

New Kind of Clock.

A clock recently invented in England has some novel features. One of these is that the weight of the clock itself is the moving force which actuates the mechanism, the clock sliding down two vertical pillars; to wind it, therfore, all that is necessary is to push the clock up to the top again. One advantage attaching to this system, in addition to its simplicity and the absence of keys, is that the need for winding is visible at a glance; hence this necessary operation is not likely to be overlooked.

Green Though Black.

A southern family, having lost their maid, pressed into service a colored girl who had been doing outside work. They first taught her to use the carpet sweeper. Next morning she cheerfully asked, "Miss Jane, shall I lawnmower the rugs?"—Boston Transcript.

SPEED DEMONS GETTING READY TO SHATTER OLD RECORDS

THE GREAT SPEEDWAY

WARMING UP

Automobile fans, now rivaling even the baseball fraternity, are turning their eyes toward Indianapolis where torpedo shaped racing cars of both domestic and foreign manufacture already are warming up for the annual Memorial Day international races. The two and a half mile brick speedway is splattered with oil sprayed from the throbbing motors, but its non-skid surface offers good traction despite the lubrication.

The speedway has an interesting history. The first race in 1909 ruined the original pavement. It resulted in the death and injury of several persons, and revealed to the world the terrible shock and wear to which a pavement is subjected by a speeding automobile.

Racing machines, running at 120 miles an hour on the straight stretches, ripped great pieces out of the surface and wore deep ruts in it before the race was fairly begun. Wheels caught in these ruts as the race progressed, causing machines to turn turtle or swerve and plunge over the track, through the guard rails and into the crowds of watchers.

The country was appalled at the catastrophe. Owners of the track, determined to prevent a repetition, started an investigation of all road paving materials with a view to selecting a permanent pavement.

After a lengthy survey and actual test, vitrified brick was chosen as the only material that could stand up under the shock and temperature changes without cracking or rolling up. For twelve years the brick track has been in service and veteran drivers say it is smoother and better today than when they ran their first race.

How Much Does it Cost Per Year?

That's the real question to consider when you buy a range! When you select an "Advance", not only is its first cost low, but measured by the lifetime of service it will give, its cost per year is lower than any other range on the market. Compare it point by point—design, construction, finish and quality of workmanship. It is supreme in its field!

Advance Stoves and Ranges

The model pictured above is featured this week on special easy terms at a very moderate price. It has a full sized oven, guaranteed to bake perfectly, an elevated warming closet with two enamel doors, duplex grates and all the other features usually found in only the highest priced stoves.

"SHAME," A WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

SHEFFIELD LOSES TO DECATUR TEAM

Coach Banks' Decatur high school boys went out Saturday and won a well played ball game from the Sheffield High School by a score of 4 to 3. The game was to be a seven inning affair by agreement to allow a second game between the Albany High and Sheffield High, but it took an extra inning to end the first dispute.

The feature play came in the sixth inning. Arthur first at bat hit a long double to right and Avant next up connected with one that was labeled for extra bases when Callahan spoiled the day for him by spearing this hot liner and doubling Arthur in his tracks. Both teams played well on the green, one error being made by each. Decatur had one big inning, the third in which they scored three runs on one hit, thusly—Glenn led off by swinging his left shoulder at one of Saywell's offerings and connecting for a free trip to first, Callahan sacrificed him to second and Phinizy got a base on balls, Nelson hit sharply to Avant who made a two base wild throw over third and Price here injected his regular hit and the three runs were in. Nothing else doing for the locals until the eighth when with two out and the bases full, Bailey received a base on balls forcing in the winning run. Mention should be made of the high class infield work of the Decatur team, especially that of Collier and Callahan.

The Albany team went down to a 10 to 1 defeat before the invaders in the double bill matinees. Fields was touched lively by the Sheffield hitters and relieved by Pepper, who applied the brakes.

VAN ARSDALE STARS

Local interest is attached to the following story from the Louisville Post, containing the announcement that L. Van Arsdale is making quite a record on the base ball diamond as a member of the Manual Training High School Baseball Squad. Mr. Van Arsdale is a nephew of T. J. Van Arsdale, a well known engineer of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, who resides here. The Post says: "L. Van Arsdale seems to have clinched the guardianship of the intial bag. He bats left or righthanded, and is a brother of the famous Hugh Van Arsdale, who scored the lone and winning touchdown against High School, on Thanksgiving 1914."

Friends in the Twin Cities are watching his career during the baseball season this year, and are much interested in his further triumphs.

REVIVAL CONTINUES ANOTHER WEEK AT 1ST BAPTIST CHURCH

The revival, begun last Sunday morning at the First Baptist church of Albany with a strong sermon by Rev. R. F. Stuckey, the pastor, urging that his congregation put God to the test on His promises, is to continue for at least another week. Rev. Stuckey's congregation set themselves to two tasks, last Sunday, first an ingathering of souls and second the payment in full of their part of the Baptist $75,000,000 mission and educational fund. Yesterday morning at the 10 o'clock service the amount of the pledge to date was paid in cash and in full. At this servive, and at the one held last night the largest number of people was in attendance since the establishing of the church some thirty years ago. The main auditorium not being large enough to hold the crowds all the Sunday School class rooms were opened into the auditorium and every seat was taken. Not only was a large part of the population of East Albany in attendance, but people came from all parts of Albany and from Decatur.

Climax Reached

On Saturday night last week's revival labors reached their climax with the acceptance into membership of eight new communicants, and the enthusiasm was great. Rev. Stuckey stated that God's promise to pour out a blessing from the open windows of heaven, such as could not be contained had been fulfilled and that the people were happy in the knowledge that they had met their obligations.

As stated the revival at Rev. Stuckey's church will continue through this week and every one is given a cordial invitation to attend. The pastor and congregation will arrange for out door meetings, if larger crowds come than can be accommodated in the church building.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR BASEBALL BAME

Instead of the regular program at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor of the 1st. Presbyterian Church last night, the leader Miss Elizabeth Fairley announced a baseball game. Sides were chosen and as each member went to the plate a question was thrown at them relating to religion or personal problems. If they were successful in answering they were given a base, but if not they were out. The captains were Misses Gertrude Griffin and Vera Smith, Miss Griffin's side winning the game by the score of 6 to 4. Rev. Wallace was the umpire.

Mrs. Ashford, Mrs. Hollenbeck, and Misses Miriam Sherrod have returned to their home in Courtland after a visit to Mrs. C. T. Happer in Decatur. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Happer and son, Carl, Jr.

ENGINEER SAYS IT'S WHAT KEPT HIM ON HIS RUN

Rheumatism And Stomach Troubles Are Entirely Gone Since Taking Tanlac, Declares Poplar C. & O. R. R. Man.

"If it hadn't been for Tanlac I believe I would have had to give up my run," said G. W. Johnson, No. 1 Company Row, Clifton Forge, Va., popular engineer on the Chesapeake and Ohio R. R.

"I suffered so from stomach trouble and rheumatism that everything I ate disagreed with me and I hurt all over. My food would sour on my stomach and bloat me up with gas until I could hardly stand it and the rheumatic pains in my arms, shoulders and legs were so bad I could hardly climb into my cab. It hurt me to lift my arm high enough to handle the throttle of my engine and often I had to walk stooped over. A sluggish liver and constipation added to my troubles and I had dizzy spells that made me stagger like a drunken man. In spite of all I could do I kept getting worse and losing weight.

"One day I told my fireman I was going to try Tanlac and before I finished the first bottle I was feeling lots better. To make a long story short, my troubles vanished like magic. That was two years ago and I am still in the finest health. My weight has increased from 116 to 176 pounds and I am strong as an ox. I'll never cease to praise Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Decatur by Decatur Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

LEGAL SKIRMISHES IN RUSSELL'S SUIT TO BEGIN TUESDAY

(International News Service)

JACKSON, Miss., May 1.—Preliminary legal skirmishing in the $100,000 damage suit filed against Governor Lee M. Russell, by Miss Frances Birkhead, his former stenographer, alleging breach of promise and advances at criminal abortion, will take place before Judge Holmes in the federal court here Tuesday.

The case was included in the formal call of the docket when court convened this morning and attorneys for the plantiff and defendant agreed to defer the opening of the battle until Tuesday.

Miss Birkhead reached here this morning from New Orleans, which city she claims is now her legal residence. She was in conference with her attorneys for an hour early this morning.

The first maneuver of attorneys for Governor Russell was to file with the clerk of the court a motion to dismiss the case because of purisdiction, it being alleged that Governor Russell is a resident of the town of Oxford and can be sued only at that place.

When Dogs Bark.

It is rather curious that dogs bark only when they are connected with human beings in some fashion; for instance when a burglar is suspected to be near. When the dog is alone, he is given to groans, growls, howls or whines. Possibly the act of barking is the dog's method of talking. It would seem like it when your pet dog sees you carrying food and barks as if he were asking for it. Another dog, which is in the habit of going to bed at sundown, will bark to tell you that he is ready when the time comes.

Source of Mosquito's Humming.

There is an apparatus for a long time overlooked or neglected by the investigators, at the base of the mosquito's wings, whereby the characteristic humming of that insect may be produced. The species examined is the anopheles maculipennis and the apparatus consists of a slightly movable bar provided with a series of well-marked teeth, which, as the wings are raised and lowered, rasp across a series of ridges.—Brooklyn Engle.

Nobody to Blame But Yourself

It's all your own fault.

In our modest way we have warned you of the results of straining your eyes trying to see when your eyes are defective.

We want to make you a proposition. We will test your eyes and correct your imperfect vision and let you see how well you can see and will not charge you a cent.

If then you decide you want to buy our glasses our prices will be very moderate.. What fairer proposition can we make than that. We do not charge for testing eyes.

TO OUR FRIENDS

Our hearts are simply overflowing with gratitude and love to each and everyone of you, who so faithfully and untiringly assisted us in our terrific grief and blow.

The multitude of flowers and the magnitude of deeds are far too great to be expressed in words or pen.

In our unadequate way, we pray the dews from Heaven will fall profusely on you and that this life will be one continuous journey to celestial regions, reuniting each of us with James, who has just been transplanted.

This is our prayer.

HARTSELLE BUREAU OF ALBANY-DECATUR DAILY

J. ADLAI WEST, Correspondent.

Leave items of general interest, including social, personals, current happenings, at Peoples Drug Company.

The pretty weather Sunday brought hundreds of motorists out along the way of the Bee Line Highway. The highway was literally strewn with cars. Many Twin City residents took advantage of the pretty day to make the drive to Hartselle, around the block and back toward home. It was the first sunshiny day for a whole week, and was taken advantage of joyfully.

† † †

The congregation of the First Methodist church worshipped with the congregation of the First Christian church Sunday night. Sunday was the opening or dedication of this new stone church. Many others of different denominations also attended the services there Sunday. Many compliments have been passed on the congregation of this church, relatively small as compared with others, on the successful accomplishment of bringing the handsome church into being. For six years the congregation have labored and planned for the successfully carrying out of the plans started before the great war. A memorial window to the memory of Andrew A. Oden, one of the charter members of the church, and due to whose efforts the present new church was begun, adrons the building.

† † †

Sunday May 7th., Dr. James A. Duncan will preach the commencement sermon to the graduates of the Morgan County High School. The services will be heuld at the First Christian Church. The seating capacity of that building being greater than any other church in the city. Special music will be furnished by a selected choir, and a most enjoyable day is anticipated. Dr. Duncan is too well known to need any introduction. A splendid message awaits those who may attend.

† † †

The third of the Booster Days was pulled off at Hartselle Saturday. Several prizes were given to those who held lucky numbers. The town was crowded from early until late in the evening when the drawing was completed. The trade days are proving very popular with the trade, and is statisfactory to the merchants who are giving away prizes. A fine trade was had by all Saturday.

† † †

Several of the music lovers of Hartselle attended Grand Opera at Birmingham Monday.

† † †

Miss Bessie Transue, of Albany, visited her friend, Miss Italyne Hardwick Sunday evening, the two motoring out to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Hardwick, where a dinner was served.

† † †

A large number of candidates from over the county were in Hartselle Saturday seeing the people. The large crowd in town gave them a fine opportunity to state their cause to the electors from over the county.

† † †

Berry shipments from Hartselle are being dispatched daily. The fruit is finding a market at Albany-Decatur, Nashville and Birmingham, considerable quantities being handled in a local way. Chas B. Calloway, secretary of the Union Truck Growers' Association hopes to send forward a full car load one day this week, provided good weather is present to pick and bring to market.

† † †

Work on the Hartselle East pike which has been progressing nicely for some time, though halted the past week on account of weather conditions, was resumed again Monday morning. Good progress is being made, and with favorable conditions the work will be completed before the Summer months come.

† † †

Final arrangements are being made this week by the faculty and students of the Morgan county high school, getting ready for the commencement exercises which will begin Sunday with commencement sermon. The graduating class is larger this year than last, and many social functions for the senior class, and entertainments for the public have been and will be staged before the closing day.

This is the first day of spring, when the heart is glad, the birds are singing and the young folks make merry around their May-pole.

The joys of spring are frequently followed by "spring fever," which condition brings further realization that a mild and healthful stimulant is needed by us all.

INTEREST HIGH IN MOBLEY SPEECH HERE ON TUESDAY

Considerable interest is being attached to the visit here of H. S. Mobly Tuesday, at which time he will deliver an address at the Morgan County community house, located on Lee street at 1:30 p. m. Mr. Mobey is a national figure, formerly being national chairman at Washington of the Farmers Organization Legislative committee. His particular subject on this occasion will be 'Cows".

Mr. Mobey is considered an expert in his line, and an authority whose words and counsel will be of great value to those interested in dairying and livestock generally. Aside from the local organizations interested in and sponsoring this meeting, it has the backing of the following out of town organizations: The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, The Birmingham Civic Association, besides farm organizations all over North Alabama. It is understood that the Morgan County farm bureau organization is making a special effort to have every member in the county present at this meeting. A large attendance is also looked for from over the county by those interested in the movement.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
Morgan County.

I, Lovick P. Troup, Judge of Probate for said county, in said state, hereby certify that the above and foregoing constitutes the correct supplemental list of qualified electors who, together with those shown on the original list heretofore published, will be entitled to vote in any election held in said Morgan county from the time of this publication until the first day of May, 1923 as the same appear from the returns of the county registrar on file in this office in connection with the poll tax list furnished me by the Tax Collecotr of said county.

Given under my hand this, the 1st day of May, 1922.

LOVICK P. TROUP,
Judge of Probate.

Sealing Wax Etiquette.

In the days when all correspondence was sealed there was etiquette about the use of sealing wax. Royalty would give some favorite courtier the sole right to use a certain colored wax, and officers of the state would each have distinguishing colors, in much the same way as staff officers of the army wear colored "tabs" nowadays.

Where the "Little Women" Played.

What American girl or woman has not laughed or wept with the Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy of Louisa Alcott's delightful story? In the home of the authoress at Concord, Mass., the attic in particular recalls the jolly good times of the "Little Women." As we mount the stairs, we can hear in imagination the sound of laughter as the four girls discussed plans or plays, for this was their favorite gathering place, and it recalls many a delightful incident in their lives.

Mr. Business Man

WHY not make your appeal for patronage through the columns of this newspaper? With every issue it carries its message into the homes of all the best people of this community. Don't blame the people for flocking to the store of your competitor. Tell them what you have to sell and if your prices are right you can get the business.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Way Madge Managed to Soothe Mother Graham.

I DID not wait for further argument from my irascible mother-in-law, but sped to the kitchen, bent on soothing Katie.

I guessed that the meekness the girl had displayed under Mother Graham's stinging and undeserved rebuke had been artificial and maintained because of her sympathy for the older woman's broken arm and her very fresh remembrance of the experience she had undergone during her absence from us. That my guess, founded upon long experience of my little maid's tempestuous moods, was a true one I saw when I entered the kitchen. For Katie stood with her arms flung out over the refrigerator, sobbing stormily, while the scent of scorching toast came to my nostrils.

I dashed to the stove, pulled the toaster away from the flame, hoping devoutly that Mother Graham's unusually keen olfactory nerves would be off duty for a few seconds. Then, without appearing to notice Katie, I hastily cut another slice of bread, toasted it in the fashion Mother Graham likes best, and spread it daintily with butter. I was starting for the dining-room with it when Katie flung herself upon me.

Madge Contrives Well.

"Oh!" she wailed, "I no vant you to do my vork, I—"

"Don't make me spill this toast," I said practically. "Bathe your face while I take this in, and then sit down and get calm. I want you to do something for me."

I did not wait for her obedience—it is generally wise, I have found, to give Katie time for a second thought—but hurried on to the dining-room and put the toast before my mother-in-law, who sniffed as she looked at the covered dish containing it.

"You needn't trouble yourself to bring me any toast that has been scraped off after burning," she said tartly, making no attempt to lift the cover of the dish.

"I haven't," I returned laconically. "This toast isn't burned."

"How dare you stand there and tell me anything like that!" she snapped. "I distinctly smelled it burning."

My sympathy with Katie had been steadily rising since I entered the room; and if my mother-in-law had been well I am afraid I should have answered her in distinctly irritated and disrespectful fashion. But the lines of pain etched in her face disarmed me even as they had Katie, and I only laughed lightly in reply as I lifted the cover of the dish and waved my hand gayly over it.

"Dot Very Nice—"

"If you can see a speck of char on that piece of toast I'll give you a dollar," I said. "There was a piece of toast burning, but it was one Katie had put on. I threw that away and toasted this."

She put up her lorgnette and inspected the toast as if it were some new species of animal discovered by a scientist. I knew that the action was, in Dicky's parlance, "a stall," meant to give her time to change front on the toast question.

"I might have known better than to ask that ape of a girl to make a piece of toast," she said at last, keeping her voice discreetly lowered, however. "This looks all right—might be a trifle browner—it will do, though. But I knew I wasn't mistaken about smelling that toast burning. I may be losing control of my mental faculties, but there's nothing the matter with my nose as yet."

I repressed with difficulty the retort that her tongue appeared also to be in splendid condition. Instead, I made a placating suggestion.

"Wouldn't you like another cup of coffee?" I asked ingratiatingly.

"Why! I believe I would," she answered, and I hastened to bring it. Then I slipped away again unobtrusively, fairly sure that she would summon me no more, and that I was free to turn my attention to Katie.

She was sitting in a chair near the sink, dabbing at her eyes with a wet towel, evidently determined to follow my instructions to the letter. I took the towel from her, gently, then turned her face toward me.

"You mustn't mind Mother Graham, Katie," I said firmly. "You know she doesn't mean a word she says, and she likes you very much indeed."

Katie looked at me shrewdly, her eyes beginning to twinkle.

"Dot very nice," she said, "but I vonder me vot she do to me eef she hate me vunce. I no like to be Katie ven dot day cooms."

I laughed, for my little maid is irresistibly funny sometimes. But I sobered instantly, however, wondering how best to broach to Katie my belief as to the folly of her keeping the oath the strange foreigner had forced her to take.

One Good Thing About Movies.

Jud Tunkins says he likes motion pictures because the girls can talk about them without getting into arguments about whether to say "dramma" or "drawma."

NEWS OF MOULTON
AND LAWRENCE COUNTY

MOULTON, Ala., April 30.—Special—The Mount Hope School Commencement exercises came to an end Friday with the presentation of tenth grade certificates to the five members of the graduating class; the class consists of one girl and four boys, Miss Helen Smith, daughter of Mr. Jack Smith, prominent merchant and member of the local board of trustees, Robert and Lincoln Counts, Grady Sibley and Virgil Glasgow. The exercises opened at ten thirty with the school auditorium filled with pupils, patrons and friends of the school. An address was made by the principal and talks by Earl M. Hodson, county superintendent of education, J. B. Gibbons, principal of the Lawrence County High School, and Jack Smith, chairman of the local board of trustees; Mr. Smith made a financial report for the school in which he showed that approximately fifteen hundred dollars had been raised locally for the school expense both as to salaries of teachers and other expenditures. Genuine regret was expressed that Misses Louise and Mary Griggs, of Marbury, and Miss Nadine Shelton, of Moulton, had not agreed to return for the next year in spite of the very successful term.

Before the conclusion of the exercises sixth grade certificates and seventh grade county certificates were presented to forty-nine boys and girls of the Mount Hope district and adjoining districts as a token of their passing successfully those two grades.

One of the most important features of the exercise however, was the presentation of the Cunningham Memorial Prizes of Fifteen dollars in gold to Ila McCarver of the ninth grade, of ten dollars in gold to Marguretie Young, of the fourth grade, and of five dollars in gold to Elizabeth Counts, of the second grade; these prizes are given annually and were made possible by the late Dr. R. M. Cunningham of Birmingham in memory of his mother whose days were spent in and around Mount Hope. The prizes are given to three pupils whose general scholarship, and department are deemed best by the teachers of the school. The general average, expressed in figures, as made by Miss McCarver was 94, Margureite Young, 93, and Elizabeth Counts, 92.

The Mount Hope school has had this session the highest enrollment in its history, 216, and the work has never been better; it was announced that the present principal, Van A. Bradley, would accept the work for the coming session.

Miss Ora Devers, Elementary School Supervisor for Lawrence County, left Saturday for a day at her home in Stephenson, Ala., and from there on to Nashville, where she resumes her studies in Peabody College for Teachers for the summer. Miss Devers has been very successful in her work for the year and has won the hearty co-operation not only of all school officials but of teachers, patrons and pupils of the schools. She will resume her work in the schools in the early autumn.

Theo. Kerby, formerly of Moulton, now member of the Colbert County High School faculty at Leighton, came with his baseball team Friday for a game with the Lawrence County High High which resulted in a loss to the locals; the rainy afternoon made the game a poor one.

T. F. Almon attended the closing exercises of the Mount Hope school Friday.

Arrangements have been perfected whereby the local public school may run a full nine months.

Mrs. E. B. Williams was called to Chattanooga Saturday by the death of her grandmother, Mrs. Burks.

† † †

Miss Fannie McDemore spent several days of last week in Decatur with relatives and friends.

† † †

Mrs. Jas. Almon is still very low; her children have been called to her bedside for the past several days as there is no hope of her recovery.

† † †

E. B. Downing attended the Bar Association in Birmingham the latter part of last week.

Principal Pruitt Simms, of the Town Creek school, was in Moulton, Saturday.

Where Men Carry Fans.

The folding fan came originally from Japan. In the East fans were carried by both sexes and were much used at important ceremonies. The Japanese had war fans, colored bright red, and there are some fans which have a small poinard concealed in the handle. The folding fan was introduced to England in Henry VIII's time, coming from Italy, to which it had been introduced by Catherine de Medici.

AID SOCIETY AIMS ARE PRESENTED

The Alabama Children's Aid Society had two speakers in the Twin Cities Sunday—Mrs. John D. Wyker, trustee of the association for North Alabama, and Miss Virginia Handley of Birmingham, field worker. Miss Handley spoke at a number of the city churches yesterday setting forth plans for helping homeless children. She is expected to return to this county at an early date, to further interest the people in better attention to friendless, homeless, helpless children.

At the request of Miss Handley, Mrs. Wyker, presented the claims of child welfare work to the Berry Bible class of the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Wyker said that 27 homeless babies of Morgan County alone, had been placed in good homes by the association, and that the slogan was—"A home for every baby, and a baby for every home." In explaining the history of the organization, Mrs. Wyker said that it was an out growth of the juvenile court activities of the city of Birmingham, and that the Chamber of Commerce of that city had up until a few years ago financed the work of the organization.
